

10th Texas Monetary Conference

March 1–2, 2002

University of Texas at Austin

Program

Costas Azariadis (UCLA), “Is There a Risk Premium Puzzle?” (with Luisa Lambertini).

Discussant: Stephen Leroy (UC Santa Barbara)

James Bullard (Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis): “Escapist Monetary Policy Rules” (with In-Koo Cho).

Thomas Cooley (NYU): “The New Economy: Some Macroeconomic Implications of an Information Age.”

Scott Freeman (University of Texas - Austin): “On the Optimality of Inheritance” (with Michael Sadler).

Discussant: Christopher Sleet (University of Iowa)

Narayana Kocherlakota (University of Minnesota): “Optimal Indirect and Capital Taxation.”

Karl Shell (Cornell University): TBA

Neil Wallace (Penn State University), “A Resolution of the National Banking System Note-Issue Puzzle” (with Bruce Champ).

Discussant: Warren Weber (Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis)

Stephen Williamson (University of Iowa): “Liquidity Effects and Private Money.”

Randall Wright (University of Pennsylvania): “A Unified Framework for Monetary Theory and Policy Analysis.”